

ARTISTS MAKE US WHO WE ARE

THE ANNUAL REPORT OF THE PENNSYLVANIA ACADEMY OF THE FINE ARTS
FISCAL YEAR 2012-13

PRESIDENT'S LETTER

PAFA's new tagline boldly declares, "We Make Artists." This is an intentionally provocative statement. One might readily retort, "Aren't artists born to their calling?" Or, "Don't artists become artists through a combination of hard work and innate talent?" Well, of course they do. At the same time, PAFA is distinctive among the many art schools across the United States in that we focus on training fine artists, rather than designers. Most art schools today focus on this latter, more apparently utilitarian career training.

PAFA still believes passionately in the value of art for art's sake, art for beauty, art for political expression, art for the betterment of humanity, art as a defining voice in American and world civilization. The students we attract from around the globe benefit from this passion, focus, and expertise, and our Annual Student Exhibition celebrates and affirms their determination to be artists.

PAFA is a Museum as well as a School of Fine Arts. So, you may ask, how does the Museum participate in "making artists?" Through its thoughtful selection of artists for exhibition and acquisition, PAFA's Museum helps to interpret, evaluate, and elevate artists for more attention and acclaim. Reputation is an important part of an artist's place in the ecosystem of the art world, and PAFA helps to reinforce and build the careers of artists, emerging and established, through its activities.

PAFA's Museum and School also cultivate the creativity of young artists. Countless public programs serve children in strollers, public and private school children, and young people who attend summer camps and after school programs. Whether they seek to be professional artists or simply enjoy expressing themselves through visual art, PAFA fosters and refines their talent and interest. As our mission statement succinctly states, "PAFA promotes the transformative power of art and art making."

The theme, therefore, of this Annual Report is, "Artists Make Us Who We Are." For all we accomplish in "making artists," we are inspired by the artists who train at PAFA, exhibit here, and place their work permanently in our collections. We are also grateful to our many supporters and community partners for making this noble mission possible.

President and CEO

ACQUISITIONS

In 2013, over 300 acquisitions were made to the collection, including purchase of works by PAFA faculty and alumni artists, Sidney Goodman, Njideka Akunyili, Eileen Neff, and Scott Noel. PAFA received generous gifts of art from Robert and Frances Kohler, Jean Bodine, Nessa Forman (bequest), Linda Lee Alter, Luther Brady, Connie and Jules Kay, Powell Bridges, and others.

PAFA's collection continued to grow thanks to the dedication and generosity of patrons. Among the highlights are large-scale, major self-portraits by Joan Brown, given by the artist's estate, and Gladys Nilsson given by Robert and Frances Kohler. The Kohlers have been making significant annual gifts to the collection and the Nilsson watercolor was one of many they donated during the year. Connie and Jules Kay, longtime supporters of PAFA, donated an important 1990 painting by the artist Sarah McEaney, adding immensely to the representation of this exemplary alumna and Philadelphia-based artist.

Among the major purchases made this year was a treasure trove of work by the influential first-wave Chicago Imagist Seymour Rosofsky. A partial purchase and part major gift, the collection includes several signature paintings, extraordinary drawings, and an invaluable study collection of prints dating from the 1940s through the 1980s. PAFA also acquired several works by artists closely connected to PAFA's history and present, including a group of drawings and paintings by Sidney Goodman and an ambitious diptych by alumna Njideka Akunyili.

CONSERVATION

PAFA has regularly employed a conservator or conservator-restorer on its staff since 1939, making it one of the first institutions in the United States to do so. Judy Dion currently fills the role, having joined PAFA in 2012 as the Paintings Conservator.

Dion believes that the activities of the Conservation Department should include preservation measures that impact every work in the collection, as well as collaborative research with curatorial staff, involvement in institutional planning, and public outreach that educates visitors and makes conservation a visible and integral part of PAFA.

Funding from preservation grants has allowed Dion to install data loggers in all of the Museum galleries and storage spaces to monitor their environment, and to adopt a long-term preservation plan for the collection. In 2012, Dion also completed treatments of gallery favorite Black Night: Russell's Corners (1943) by George Copeland Ault, and Philadelphia Hannah (c. 1785) by Gilbert Stuart, which recently went on view for the first time since its acquisition in 1999.

In 2013, PAFA's Conservation Department welcomed two interns and a work-study student to work on a series of special projects, digitizing all 89 of the Department's x-radiographs, which were taken in the Conservation Lab over several decades. Digitization of these films offers new methods of examining and interpreting paintings and sculptures from the Museum's collection by comparing the x-rays with the current nature of the corresponding works.

NEW WORKS ON PAPER GALLERY

The Richard C. von Hess Foundation awarded PAFA a grant of $250,000 to construct a new gallery for its extensive collection of works on paper. The project's goal is to expand public access to the vast trove of PAFA's works on paper collection that includes drawings, watercolors, sketchbooks, and prints in traditional and experimental media from all periods in American art, as well as photographs, including the largest collection of Thomas Eakins photography.

PAFA's collection contains a great number of cast and life drawings by instructors in the 19th century that provide researchers with a wealth of material evidence into the development of history and figure painting in the United States. The collection also includes masterpieces of drawing by John Singleton Copley, Mary Cassatt, Grant Wood, and Alfred Leslie, in addition to over two dozen painting studies by Arthur Dove, collages by Robert Motherwell, and an exceptional collection of light-sensitive miniatures. In recent years, the collection has been enriched by four major collection donations that expand the Museum's works on paper holdings: more than 110 watercolors by William Trost Richards from Mrs. Samuel M. V. Hamilton, the Sue Coe Archive, the Vogel Collection (including works by Richard Tuttle), and the Linda Lee Alter Collection of Art by Women with works by Alice Neel, Edna Andrade, and Louise Nevelson.

Included in this project is an adjacent space where scholars will be able to view works for research purposes, and where curators and faculty will be able to teach from this remarkable collection. PAFA engaged the architectural firm Atkin Olshin Schade to design the Works on Paper Gallery and alumna Laura Sallade to design the table for the Study Room. Construction began in the spring and was completed in the fall of 2013.

The project's goal is to expand public access to the vast trove of PAFA's works on paper collection that includes drawings, watercolors, sketchbooks, prints, as well as the largest collection of Thomas Eakins photography.

♦ EXHIBITIONS ♦

THE YEAR IN EXHIBITIONS

In fiscal year 2012-13, PAFA hosted thirteen Museum exhibitions celebrating American art of the past 200 years, ranging from an exhibition highlighting Frank Furness' architectural drawings of the Historic Landmark Building (Sept. 29 – Dec. 30, 2012), to the highly anticipated debut of the Linda Lee Alter Collection of Art by Women with The Female Gaze: Women Artists Making Their World (Nov. 17, 2012 – Apr. 7, 2013).

ON VIEW / Samuel M. V. Hamilton Building

The Female Gaze:

Women Artists Making Their World

(Nov. 17, 2012 – Apr. 7, 2013) Featuring approximately 500 works of art in a variety of media by over 150 artists, the Alter collection came to PAFA as a gift in December 2010 from Linda Lee Alter. The Female Gaze presented over 250 works from this superb collection, arranged thematically throughout the Samuel M. V. Hamilton galleries, with sections on self-portraiture; spiritual reactions to nature; politics; sexuality; family; and a wide range of land- and cityscapes. Attendance for The Female Gaze was the highest in a decade, with 69,444 visitors during the exhibition's five-month run.

The landmark exhibition presented a diverse array of art by women, including more traditional artists such as Elizabeth Catlett, Yvonne Jacquette, Alice Neel, Gladys Nilsson, Elizabeth Osborne, and Hollis Sigler, as well as works by artists who pushed artistic boundaries, challenged the status quo, or made more aggressive images of political and social protest, such as Laylah Ali, Sue Coe, Diane Edison, Christina Ramberg, and Nancy Spero. Women of color (Americans of Asian, African, Hispanic, and American Indian ethnicity) are heavily represented in the collection, furthering PAFA's vision to "be a defining voice for education in the evolving traditions and cultural diversity of the Fine Arts in America."

112th Annual Student Exhibition (May 10 - June 2, 2013)

The Annual Student Exhibition (ASE), a time-honored culminating experience for PAFA students, fills three gallery floors in PAFA's Samuel M.V. Hamilton Building with more than one thousand art works by graduating BFA students, third- and fourth-year Certificate program students, and graduating MFA students. The works exhibited and sold during the exhibition encompass a wide range of mediums and styles, showcasing PAFA's four core disciplines of painting, drawing, printmaking, and sculpture alongside mixed media, video, installations, and performance pieces.

The high quality and incredible diversity in the vision and voice of PAFA's artists draws thousands of eager art-collectors and art-lovers each May and June. The exhibition also serves to provide PAFA's students with valuable skills as they prepare to launch their artistic careers, and for many students, it is their first experience exhibiting and selling their work in a professional setting.

PAFA's Women's Board hosted the 112th Annual Student Exhibition Preview Party on May 9 with honorary chairs Hank and June Smith, co-chaired by Anne E. McCollum and Carmen Navarro Pelaez. The Preview Party raised over $150,000, and opening night sales exceeded $250,000 to support student scholarships.

Close to 500 Preview Party guests enjoyed access to 1,450 works of art, including paintings, drawings, prints, sculpture and installations before the general public. Over $170,000 in prizes and scholarships were awarded during the Annual Student Exhibition – including the coveted William Emlen Cresson Award, the Richard C. von Hess Memorial Scholarship and Travel Award, and the Women's Board Travel Scholarships.

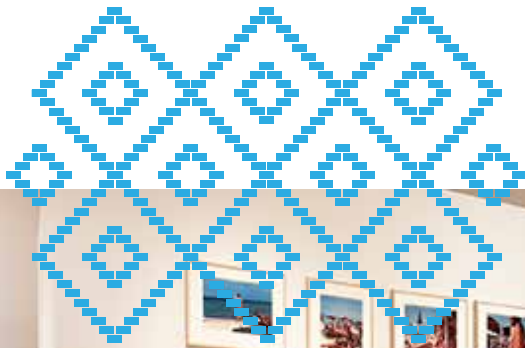

Sponsors of the evening included: The Katherine Alexandra Foundation, Anthropologie, Beneficial Bank, Sally J. Bellet, Esq., Bollinger Insurance Solutions, Robert and Julie Jensen Bryan, William and Laura Buck, CDI Corporation, Corporate Realty Services, Jimmy Duffy's Catering, Anne E. McCollum, Eric and Georgiana W. Noll, Ashwini and Sashi Reddi and Wine Legend.

New this year was the Annual Student Exhibition Online Gallery, featuring works and biographical information from each exhibiting student. The ASE Online Gallery gave prospective visitors and patrons a sampling of the works of art on display in the exhibition.

Dive Deep: Eric Fischl and the Process of Painting (June 29 – Sept. 30, 2012) showcased 145 works of art, including 50 working photographs and 14 paintings from 1979 to the present. The exhibition was accompanied by a constellation of related studies in various media, which provided a revealing look into the painter's provocative visual intelligence. Together, these works illustrated Fischl's process as a synthesis of astute observation and interpretation. In conjunction with the exhibition, PAFA co-produced the 35-minute film Eric Fischl: The Process of Painting with Checkerboard Films. The film chronicles the artist's creative process and features interviews between Fischl and Harry Philbrick, as well as Jodi Throckmorton.

A New Look: Samuel F. B. Morse's Gallery of the Louvre (Aug. 4, 2012 – Sept. 22, 2013) was created to tell a fascinating tale of art education, mentorship and practice, and learning from historical art. PAFA's installation set Morse's Gallery of the Louvre painting into surroundings mirroring what is shown in Morse's painting. The exhibition coincided with the demanding copy class taught at PAFA where students were encouraged to select works installed in the Morse room.

Building a Masterpiece: Frank Furness' Factory for Art (Sept. 29 – Dec. 30, 2012) was part of a city-wide initiative commemorating the acclaimed American architect Frank Furness. In addition to showcasing the interior architecture of the building itself, PAFA's exhibit featured photographs from various stages in the building's history; architectural drawings; and other graphic materials from its archives and collection; as well as borrowed materials from private collections, including Furness sketchbook drawings not seen for a generation.

A Mine of Beauty: Landscapes by William Trost Richards (Sept. 29 – Dec. 30, 2012) celebrated the recent gift by Mrs. Samuel M. V. Hamilton of 110 William Trost Richards watercolors with a focus exhibition. The jewel-like watercolor landscapes by the American Pre-Raphaelite artist delighted visitors with their intimate scale and technical mastery of the watercolor medium. The watercolors were on display in conjunction with a selection of Richards oil paintings from both the permanent collection and select private collections.

Olive Thomas: Charms* (June 29 – Aug. 12, 2012) featured an exploration of scale, proximity, and design using found materials by 2011 MFA graduate, Olive Thomas, who received the 2010 Graduate Faculty Exhibition Award.

PAFA Faculty Exhibition* (Aug. 17 – Sept. 30, 2012) exemplified the varied artistic approaches that PAFA faculty bring to their Fine Arts practice and to their role as teacher-artists. The exhibition featured 68 works by 65 faculty members from PAFA's Certificate, BFA, Post-Bacc, MFA, and Continuing Education Programs.

Printmaking and the PAFA Press* (Nov. 16, 2012 – Apr. 7, 2013) presented a curated selection of works from the Printmaking Department Archives and the PAFA Press, including lithographic prints by Elizabeth Osborne, Bruce Samuelson, Sidney Goodman, Dan Miller, and Jan Baltzell, as well as by Visiting Artists Katie Baldwin and Matt Bollinger.

Henry Ossawa Tanner: Modern Spirit travels nationally after debuting at PAFA

Between April 11 and May 14, 2013, PAFA, in collaboration with Amtrak, exhibited contemporary artist KAWS' 16-foot COMPANION (PASSING THROUGH) sculpture at Philadelphia's 30th Street Station. The highly popular installation served as a preview for the KAWS @ PAFA exhibition, opening in October 2013 at the Historic Landmark Building. An estimated 380,000 people walked through 30th Street Station while COMPANION was installed, and over the course of five weeks, 20,000 promotional rack cards were taken by interested travelers and passerby. The installation also captured the attention of hundreds of social media users who shared over 800 photos of COMPANION on Instagram using the hashtag #PAFAKAWS.

PROGRAMS OF STUDY

Fall 2012 Admissions

New enrollment for fall 2012:	Cert/BFA	51
	Post-Bacc	12
	MFA	46

PAFA awarded more than $1 million in merit and need-based scholarships to 109 new students.

Admissions Statistics

109 new students enrolled from 20 states and 8 countries. International students came from China, United Kingdom, South Korea, Hong Kong, Canada, Switzerland, and Iran.

Gender balance of our new students is:	UG/BFA	female 73.1%	male 26.9%
	Post-Bacc	female 50%	male 50%
	MFA	female 53.2%	male 46.8%

New student ethnicity is listed as follows:

African-American 3.6%; Asian-American 8.1%; Hispanic/Latino 7.2%; Multi-Racial 6.4%; Unknown 13.6%

During the fall of 2012, three Seasonal Admissions Associates were hired for additional school visits and National Portfolio Day events, including:

- 26 National Portfolio Days
- 20 Regional Portfolio Days
- 3 NACAC visual and performing arts fairs
- 78 high school/community college/university visits.

The Office of Admissions produced a school poster, which was sent to 2,400 high schools and community colleges nationwide. This, together with ads in national arts publications increased PAFA's reputation and teacher awareness of the programs offered.

An Enrollment Management team was assembled with staff and faculty members from various departments. This team met regularly over the year to review marketing and enrollment strategies, and discuss how PAFA is responding to changes in the economy and demographic areas that affect current and future enrollment trends.

PAFA began to accept electronic portfolios in mid-November using SlideRoom[®], and later, in December, launched an online application.

PAFA's Office of Admissions held an Open House for prospective students in the fall, as well as a New Student Day in April 2013. During the New Student Day, students were invited to participate in a three-hour class with Professor Al Gury, while parents learned more about the financial aid application process, and attended a curator's tour of The Female Gaze: Women Artists Making Their World, lead by PAFA's Curator of Modern Art, Robert Cozzolino. Following full-campus tours, students, parents, and guests had the opportunity to see the apartments and other amenities available in PAFA at Park Towne Place.

During the winter break a number of current PAFA students were asked to visit their art teachers to share their thoughts on PAFA and how the curriculum here has impacted their artistic practice. In addition, current student ambassadors presented their work on campus during a number of high school class visits from George Washington Carver Center for the Arts and Technology, Towson, MD, and Germantown Friends School in Philadelphia.

PAFA also initiated an Alumni Book Award in the spring. This project is meant to identify qualified fine art students (juniors) at a number of high schools, who may be considering applying to an art school in their senior year. The Alumni Council helped to identify appropriate schools. The art teachers at those schools were asked for nominations, and the awards included a signed award, a PAFA exhibition catalog, and a letter explaining the award, which invited the winner to visit PAFA this fall, and to apply for admission with a fee waiver. Students received the Alumni Book Award at the following schools: Strath Haven High School in Wallingford,

PA, Harriton High School in Rosemont, PA, Fairfield Warde High School in Fairfield CT, and The Baldwin School in Bryn Mawr, PA.

PAFA produced a new viewbook which serves as the basis for the Admissions marketing campaign for the next three academic years.

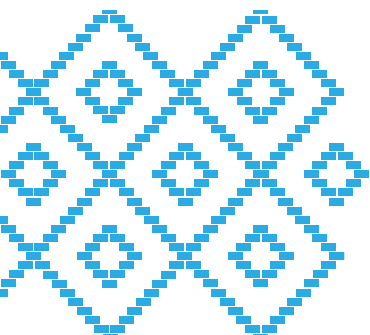

STUDENT SERVICES

This year brought an active calendar of student programming, from the annual Hayride and all-night Drawing Marathon, to a Prohibition-themed Winter Bash and a Cupcake Social. PAFA offered over 30 Career Services presentations and workshops, guiding students on professional skills, hosting alumni talks on career paths, and providing skills assessment testing. The student internship program has expanded to include opportunities both with PAFA's museum staff, as well as off campus sites such as the School District of Philadelphia, galleries around the city, and arts organizations ranging from The Print Center to The Mütter Museum, giving students valuable hands-on experience with a range of professionals.

The ongoing partnership with retailer Anthropologie led to a collaborative fall fashion show during a PAFA After Dark event to showcase apparel designed with PAFA student artwork. Students connected with patrons in the annual Student Print Sale in December, and the Open Studio Night in February attracted over 800 visitors to get a peek into the inside world of studio life.

This year marked PAFA's first annual Parent and Family Weekend. Families attended classes, enjoyed meeting PAFA President David Brigham, faculty and staff, attended an alumni career panel, and explored Philadelphia. The launch of the PAFA Parent Council, a leadership group of parents, brought improved communication with the broader parent body through the website, and a successful fundraising effort to furnish the 11th-floor student lounge.

ALUMNI SPOTLIGHT: JACOB MULDOWNNEY

“In my mind, ideas of ‘finish’ or ‘resolution’ must remain extremely fluid. No individual part of an artwork is greater than the whole and, that being the case, no individual part of an artwork can be above reproach or immune to edition or deletion. Both construction and demolition are, to me, of equal importance,”

- Jacob Muldowney (BFA '12).

Jacob Muldowney is one of five family members to attend PAFA. His sisters Miriam and Shushana received their Certificates in 2006 and 2008 respectively, while his brother Ryan completed his MFA in 2008. His father, Charles Muldowney (MFA '05), teaches drawing and painting in PAFA's Continuing Education program.

Inspired by his spirituality and an interest in natural processes, Muldowney incorporates various media in his works, utilizing oil paint, graphite, pastel, and charcoal, as well as printmaking techniques. “The trial-and-error methodologies I employ, and my quest for endless personal development and progression, are my metaphors for life as a process of becoming,” Muldowney states.

The recipient of numerous prestigious awards, Muldowney was one of 20 students nationwide to receive a coveted Graduate Arts Award from the Jack Kent Cooke Foundation in 2013, enabling him to pursue a Master's of Fine Art degree at Washington University in St. Louis.

At PAFA, Muldowney won the Hazel Art Scholarship Award; The Ricker Memorial Prize; Carlson Landscape Residency; Hannah Shickley Memorial Scholarship, James Bonelli, Jr. Memorial Prize, and an Honorable Mention for the Robinson Book Award.

Of this promising PAFA alumnus, Scott Noel, Professor of Painting and Drawing says: “Jacob has taken on the grand narratives of perceptual painting and drawing; distinguishing himself in his mastery of drawing, color, and pictorial organization. So comprehensive has been his curiosity that Jacob has pursued the abstract components of traditional representation into a young but promising exploration of abstract gesture and space.”

VISITING ARTISTS PROGRAM

FALL 2012

Ann Agee explores the intersection of domestic space and art production, merging decorative and fine arts and playing with historical conventions of art as seen through contemporary eyes.

Serena Perrone's builds series of works in which different symbolic elements encounter and interact with one another in altered, fictionalized landscapes through imagery that combines painting with wood-cut, drawing, silkscreen and intaglio methods.

Derrick Adams' practice is rooted in deconstructivist philosophies and the perception of ideals attached to objects, colors, textures, symbols and ideologies.

Ryan Kelly references historical figures and uses pop culture and myth in his allegorical performances and videos.

Douglas Irving Repetto's work includes sculpture, installation, performance, recordings, and software is presented internationally. He is the founder of a number of art/community-oriented groups including dorkbot.

Abigail DeVille is an installation artist whose large scale pieces reference canonical sculpture, raise social issues and largely consist of impermanent materials such as recycled lumber and cardboard.

SPRING 2013

Natalie Frank is a contemporary, young figurative painter living and working in Brooklyn, NY.

Donald Lipski is a sculptor best known for his installation pieces and his large scale public works.

PAFA alumna Njideka Akunyili is a Nigerian artist whose large collage paintings use the figure as well as references to her African culture and heritage.

Oliver Herring's work includes knit sculptures, stop-motion videos, and interactive performances using volunteers and strangers. He is also known for his photography and recent series of photo-sculptures.

Jacob Feige's paintings explore abstraction through landscape, bringing together distinct references from the Hudson River School to computer graphics and beyond.

Melanie Vote is a multi disciplinary artist who replicates objects from her childhood in plaster and then draws and paints from these objects.

Nami Yamamoto is Japanese artist, working primarily in installation and drawing concerning ideas of nature and the man-made environment.

Jerome Witkin is considered to be one of today's premiere narrative painters, dealing with political themes such as the Holocaust, torture and the Aids crisis.

Aurora Robson is a multi-media artist known predominantly for her transformative work intercepting the waste stream with plastic debris, excess packaging and junk mail.

Sue Coe, working mainly in illustration and printmaking, is known for work that is highly political, thematically dealing issues of capitalism and cruelty to animals.

Chitra Ganesh's works are centered on mythologies and epic narratives of Hindu, Greek, and Buddhist origin as well as more contemporary visual expressions from Bollywood, 1960s psychedelia, science fiction, feminist fanzines, and comic books.

Daniel Arsham's multimedia practice transcends the lines between architecture and performance art, using sculpture to challenge our perceptions of physical space.

Heiko Blankenstein connects ideas of flora and fauna with modern technology. Concerned with traditional modes of drawing and printmaking, he explores the self-consciousness of these media and the idea of sound and song as a metaphor for human experience.

TEACHING PROGRAMS

PAFA Achieves Middle States Accreditation

PAFA achieved full accreditation from the Middle States Commission on Higher Education (MSCHE) for its graduate and undergraduate degrees and certificates in the fine arts. MSCHE is the regional accrediting body for many Mid Atlantic schools, colleges and universities. This additional level of accreditation was prompted by the addition of PAFA's own Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA) undergraduate degree program. The BFA was accredited by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania State Department of Education in 2008, at which time the School embarked upon the process of becoming accredited through Middle States. The PAFA Bachelor of Fine Arts offers a major in Fine Arts and four concentrations: Painting, Drawing, Printmaking and Sculpture.

PAFA is also accredited by the National Association of Schools of Art and Design (NASAD) and the State Department of Education, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to offer the Bachelor of Fine Arts in Studio Art (BFA), the Master's of Fine Arts (MFA), the 120-credit Certificate and the 30-credit Post-Baccalaureate Certificate. Since 1929, PAFA has offered a coordinated BFA in conjunction with the University of Pennsylvania (Penn), which leads to an Ivy-League degree. PAFA is a member of the Association of Independent Schools of Art and Design (AICAD), a consortium of the leading independent art schools in the United States and Canada.

New Leadership for the Graduate Programs

Professor Clint Jukkala is the new Chair of PAFA's Graduate Programs. A dedicated painter and experienced academic leader, Professor Jukkala previously the Director of Undergraduate Studies in the Yale School of Art where he had also served as the Graduate Programs Coordinator. Professor Jukkala joins the Graduate Programs at an important time in its development. He and the Graduate Faculty will be working together on new programming, scheduling and marketing initiatives to make a great graduate program even better. Professors Dan Miller and Michael Moore have both stepped down as Chairs in the Graduate Programs Department. Both Miller and Moore are returning to the faculty, where they will continue as critics.

Faculty Awards

The Excellence In Teaching Award (Certificate/BFA): Neysa Grassi

The Excellence In Teaching Award (Certificate/BFA): Scott Noel

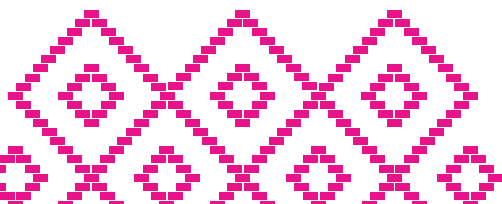

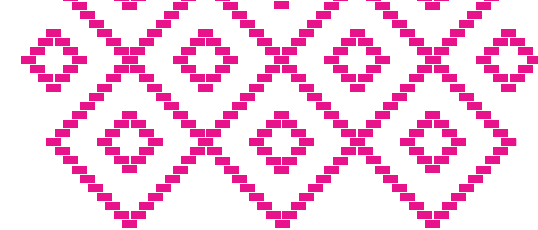

The Excellence In Teaching Award (MFA): Mark Blavat

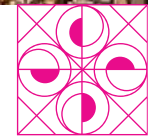

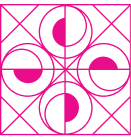

Commencement

In the graduation ceremonies of 2013, PAFA awarded 12 Post-Baccalaureate Certificates and 54 Masters of Fine Arts degrees, as well as 29 new Bachelor of Fine Arts degrees and 28 Certificates. Two students were awarded both a Certificate and a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree. Commencement ceremonies were followed by the public opening of the 112th Annual Student Exhibition (ASE), PAFA students' debut into the professional world of exhibiting artists.

The Commencement ceremonies for the graduating class of 2013 were especially poignant this year. Dan Miller, outgoing Chair of the Graduate Programs, was the Commencement speaker. Professor Miller is an accomplished woodblock printmaker, and has a very extensive list of solo exhibitions and inclusion in public and private collections. His teaching career at PAFA began in 1964, and he has been Chair of the Graduate Programs since 1998. Michael Moore, Chair of the Post-Baccalaureate Program, was awarded the Dean's Award for Distinguished Service to PAFA. Long-time faculty member Elizabeth Osborne was given the Distinguished Alumni Award. Commencement speaker to the class of 2011, Professor Emerita Osborne has long been recognized by critics and her peers as one of the most accomplished of Philadelphia artists.

The ceremonies also recognized artist and collector Linda Lee Alter, who was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Fine Arts for her support and encouragement of women in the arts. Alter gave her magnificent collection of over 500 works of art by women artists to PAFA in 2010, and from November 17, 2012 to April 7, 2013, PAFA mounted an exhibition of over 200 of these works in The Female Gaze: Women Artists Making their World.

♦ COMMUNITY EDUCATION ♦

FAMILY, STUDENT, ADULT AND TEACHER PROGRAMMING

Public programs for families, students and adults in fiscal year 2012-13 built on past success, with a wide range of programs that engaged diverse constituencies in rich and meaningful ways throughout the year.

FAMILY PROGRAMS

Family Arts Academy

Encouraging families to explore and create art together, Family Arts Academy offered 29 on-site Sunday workshops, and 46 outreach workshops and events in diverse community locations. Participation for the year, both on-site at PAFA and out in the community, exceeded 5,000. Workshop topics included African American Quilts, Family Totems, Origami, Chinese Paper Lanterns, Mexican Folk Art, Live Animal Drawing, and more. Targeted specifically to students in the School District of Philadelphia, the Sunday workshops were offered free to families with students in Philadelphia public and charter schools, as well as PAFA members, and for the price of Museum admission to other families.

Family Tours

PAFA expanded its offerings to families, piloting Stroller Tours for new parents as well as Pre-K Tours for active young families to explore the Museum together during casual, interactive tours with Museum staff.

FUNdamentals Art Camp

In summer 2012, a total of 519 students (ages 5-15) participated in 7 week-long camp sessions, each with its own theme. These included Silent Film-Making, Mythical Creatures, Fiber Arts, and more. PAFA offered after-camp sessions for working families, as well as 25 need-based scholarships.

Spring Art Camp

In March 2013, PAFA piloted a Spring Break Camp that allowed children ages 5-15 to attend individual days of the camp week. Over the course of the five days, attendance ranged from 12 to 27, with an average of 20. Held in the Samuel M. V. Hamilton Building, each day camper engaged in art creation and exploration related to that day's camp theme.

Art-Making beyond PAFA

More than 3,500 family members participated in 33 art-making workshops and 13 community events, such as the Philadelphia Science Festival; Philadelphia International Festival of the Arts; and Rittenhouse Row Festival.

STUDENT PROGRAMS

Student Docent Program

The newest addition to PAFA's offerings benefiting students was launched this year, following a highly successful pilot in early 2012 with Mercy Vocational High School students. PAFA's Student Docent Program was initiated by Harry Philbrick and is based on the program he instituted in 1993 at the Aldrich Contemporary Art Museum while he served as Director. This program transforms Museum engagement into an active inquiry-based learning experience. Trained student docents lead their peers through an open process of looking, discovering, and discussing. The Student Docent Program continued with Mercy Vocational High School, and added students from Friends Select School and Father Judge High School. In its first full year of operation, 23 students volunteered as docents, providing tours for 443 of their peers.

Summer Academy for High School Students

This four-week program offers college-level art-making experiences to students contemplating a career in the fine arts or the pursuit of an art degree in college. Students take rigorous courses in drawing, painting, sculpture and printmaking from PAFA's exceptional faculty of instructors, visit artists' studios to learn first-hand how artists develop ideas, create art and build careers, and take day trips to museums and galleries in Philadelphia, New York, and Washington, D.C. This year saw the program's highest enrollment since its inception in 2005, with 26 students from the region and across the country

After-School Studio Art Program for High School Students

Since 1994, this program has provided area high school students with college-level fine arts education and hands-on studio experience free of charge. The 2012-13 school year saw record levels of participation, with 279 students (an 18% increase over 2011-12), and total class enrollments at 429, a 16% increase (the higher number reflecting some students taking multiple courses). Students came from 45 high schools located throughout the Greater Philadelphia area, including public, private, charter, and home-schools. 41 students continued from 2011-12, demonstrating the program's ability to have a sustained impact on students.

School Group Visits

PAFA art educators provided 243 interactive and curriculum-based gallery tours for K-12 school groups. Students viewed artworks in the galleries, linking art to core curriculum subjects such as language arts and history, and deepening students' understanding of the importance of art and creative expression in their daily lives.

Outreach to Students

PAFA expanded its student programming in the community, as Museum educators travelled to various locations for K-12 outreach and Kindergarten Museum outreach. With the principal focus on reaching students in Philadelphia public and charter schools, these programs reached 2,600 students in 35 sessions throughout the year.

TEACHER PROGRAMS

Teacher Workshops

PAFA's Museum educators presented 3 workshops designed to help classroom teachers link their curricula to the visual arts, with workshop themes focused on particular grade levels and/or subjects. Teachers received 3 hours of Act 48 credit for each workshop. An Educator Evening at PAFA in January was attended by 20 teachers. In November, a total of 55 Philadelphia School District teachers participated in PAFA-led professional development workshop at Rush Academy, and an in-Service Day held at PAFA for teachers from Bensalem High School.

Summer Academy for Teachers

This one-week course in July 2012 blended the fine arts, art history, and Museum education techniques appropriate for all K-12 educators. Led by PAFA's Museum Education and Continuing Education staff the theme: "The Painted Narrative" focused on PAFA's Eric Fischl exhibition and invited participants to observe the world through the artist's eyes.

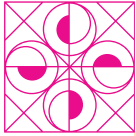

Supplemental Activities and Lessons

PAFA's Museum Education staff supports teachers in preparing students for their school group visit and tour through making available (at no cost) pre-visit materials related to the tour theme. In 2012-13, PAFA staff began offering additional 60-minute lessons immediately following the gallery tour for an additional fee. In its debut year, five groups participated in this additional activity.

ADULT PROGRAMS: CONTINUING EDUCATION

A plethora of art classes, workshops and special programs for adults of all levels of ability were offered during 2012-13, serving over 1,300 students. Courses were offered on weekdays, evenings and during weekends in the fall, spring and summer semesters.

Master Classes

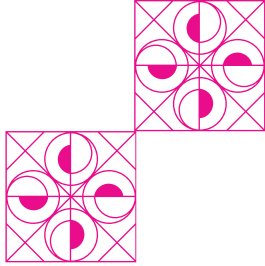

The popular weekend Master Classes drew an attendance of 125 students who learned from such renowned artists as Bo Bartlett, Susan Van Campen, Christine Lafuente, Dan Miller, Bruce Samuelson, Stuart Shils, Ken Kewley, and Juliette Aristides.

Collaboration with Alumni Gallery

The Continuing Education Department began a close collaboration with PAFA's Alumni Gallery, offering Master Classes with select exhibiting artists.

Task Force

During the fall, a group comprising current Continuing Education students with expertise in business and marketing was assembled to assist in increasing enrollment and revenue. As a result, the course schedule was restructured, making the program more competitive with similar programs in the area. Beginning with the spring 2013 semester, the 14-week course schedule was adjusted to 12- and 10-weeks, and tuition was reduced. The changes saw increases in revenue and enrollment in the spring and summer 2013 semesters.

ADULT PROGRAMS: PAFA AFTER DARK

In its third season of evening programs, PAFA After Dark featured five installments that were attended by a total of 1,572 guests. Bringing together performing arts, art-making, and PAFA's special exhibitions and permanent collection, PAFA After Dark's surprising nights in the galleries offer an eclectic mix of engaging activities, all in a relaxed social atmosphere.

Designed with Love on October 25, 2012, celebrated the Frank Furness centenary exhibition.

Made in America on December 13, 2012 offered live jazz, gallery talks focused on architecture, manufacturing, and the art factory aspect of the Frank Furness-designed Historic Landmark Building.

Activate on January 17, 2013, brought together provocative artists represented in The Female Gaze who spoke their minds about their art, through performances and in short videos.

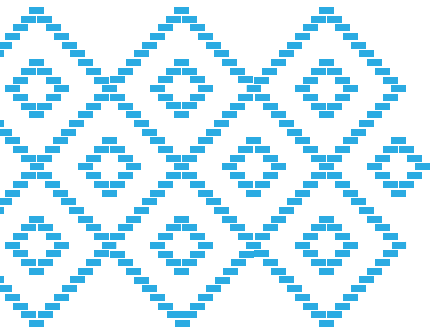

Peep Show on February 21, 2013, was one of the year's most popular events. Through gallery talks, demonstrations, and entertainment, PAFA's Museum staff let attendees in on some of PAFA's best-kept secrets.

Word Play on March 21, 2013, celebrated Women's History Month, bringing together artists and wordsmiths to celebrate the rich history of women in the arts, set in the Female Gaze galleries. Special guided tours by student docents from Friends Select School led visitors on a quest to verbalize what they saw in paintings.

Spaced Out on May 2, 2013, probed PAFA's most unique and rarely seen space— the historic Cast Hall— which has been bringing together art and science for over 100 years.

ADULT PROGRAMS: TALKS, LECTURES, DISCUSSIONS

The Review Panel Philadelphia

PAFA inaugurated this yearly series of panel discussions about contemporary art moderated by artcritical.com's David Cohen in the fall of 2012. Nearly 500 guests attended during the debut year, which featured distinguished critics from Philadelphia and beyond joining Mr. Cohen to critique exhibitions on view in Philadelphia. Participating critics included Bobbi Booker, Edward Epstein, Andrea Kirsh, Edith Newhall, K. Malcolm Richards, Barry Schwabsky, Judith Stein, Christian Viveros-Faune and Lilly Wei. Inspired by the popular series of New York-based public programs founded in 2004 at the National Academy Museum and moderated by Mr. Cohen, The Review Panel Philadelphia creates an informed dialogue about Philadelphia's art and artists and connects students and the public with the arts community of the region. The series aims to increase the visibility of the city's art exhibitions and awareness of aesthetic issues, drawing upon PAFA's intellectual and artistic leadership in the Philadelphia arts community and beyond.

Public Forum on Race and Gender in Contemporary Art

The Female Gaze exhibition generated abundant press coverage, especially in the wake of comments made by New York Times critic Ken Johnson in an exhibition preview. An online petition in response to Johnson's writings was signed by over 1,800 people, including artists Glenn Ligon, Kara Walker, Louise Lawler and Trenton Doyle Hancock, as well as art historian Miwon Kwon, and artist/critic/curator Robert Storr. PAFA's Public Forum on February 10, 2013 invited a discussion about the issues at hand. The lively debate focused around the questions "What role does identity politics play in the contemporary art world?" and "How do gender and race play into the art we make, the art we collect and exhibit?" Panelists included Ken Johnson; Kimberly Brooks, Artist and Founding Editor of Huffington Post Arts; Njideka Akunyili, Artist; and Joyce Kozloff, Artist. University of Pennsylvania Associate Professor of American Art, Gwendolyn DuBois Shaw, moderated the forum.

Graduate Symposium on Women in American Art

The second annual Graduate Symposium at PAFA, held on February 23, 2013 brought together 6 graduate students from around the region to present new research papers on the role of women in the history of American Art. With faculty respondents from University of Delaware, University of Pennsylvania, Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey, Princeton University, Temple University and PAFA, the day was filled with new insights into under-researched movements and artists. Total attendance was 54.

Artist Talks

PAFA was delighted to bring artists Sue Coe and Diane Edison to Philadelphia during The Female

Gaze exhibition to give talks focusing on their careers and artistic inspiration, and to deepen understanding of their extraordinary works that are now part of PAFA's permanent collection.

Art at Lunch

A total of 1,276 guests attended 25 free lunch-time lectures in 2012-13, bringing together artists with professionals from the art world, and the public for informal discussions on a variety of topics related to PAFA's permanent collection and special exhibitions.

Traveling Lecture Series

Connecting PAFA's exhibitions with communities through free Female Gaze-related lectures, this series reached 720 individuals at 12 locations throughout Philadelphia, including community centers, non-profits, and colleges. Participating groups were also offered a discounted group rate to attend the exhibition.

Pen and Paintbrush Club

In its second year, PAFA's reading group read seven new books that highlighted themes in the artwork on view at PAFA. From Zora Neale Hurston's classic Their Eyes Were Watching God to Lawrence Wechsler's Mr. Wilson's Cabinet of Wonder, participants explored the connections between paintings and literature in light afternoon discussion.

GRANT HIGHLIGHTS

The Albert M. Greenfield American Art Resource Online project, supported exclusively by The Albert M. Greenfield Foundation's $500,000 in grant funding over five years, reached a milestone in 2012-13, when the uploading of basic information on every object in PAFA's collection into the online database was completed. By the end of December 2013, the uploading of all images to the online database will also be complete, enabling Internet users around the world to access both verbal and image information about all of the approximately 12,000 objects in PAFA's collection.

With grants totaling $350,000, the William Penn Foundation was the sole major funder of two of PAFA's 2012-13 exhibitions: the enormously successful major exhibition, The Female Gaze: Women Artists Making Their World, and the smaller exhibition, Building a Masterpiece: Frank Furness' Factory for Art, celebrating Furness's architectural vision for PAFA's Historic Landmark Building, in 2013, the centenary of his death.

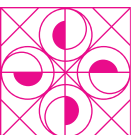

The Terra Foundation for American Art made possible the exhibition A New Look: Samuel F. B. Morse's Gallery of the Louvre both through a loan of Morse's Gallery of the Louvre that the Foundation owns, and through a grant of $52,000.

Goldstone Family Foundation supported the Sculpture Plinth Project's KAWS@30th Street Station installation with a $25,000 gift.

The Richard C. von Hess Foundation awarded PAFA a grant of $250,000 as the exclusive funder of the Richard C. von Hess Foundation Works on Paper Gallery, constructed in the Historic Landmark Building on the mezzanine level. The new gallery uses space formally deployed as administrative offices, most recently housing PAFA's curators.

In 2012-13, PAFA received substantial significant support from governmental funding agencies, including an $85,000 general support grant from the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts, and the second year of a two-year grant of $137,000 from the Institute of Museum and Library Services supporting PAFA After Dark and Family Arts Academy at PAFA.

PAFA benefited from the second year of the Horace W. Goldsmith Foundation's $150,000-over-two-years grant supporting PAFA's vision; the William Randolph Hearst Foundation's $75,000 grant supporting PAFA's programs benefitting young people; and the first half of McLean Contribution's $50,000 two-year grant supporting an upgrading and unifying of PAFA's internal administrative databases that has already improved capacity for serving students, parents, and members. Children Can Shape the Future provided a $25,000 grant in support of Family Arts Academy.

BACCHANAL

On November 10, PAFA hosted its 14th consecutive Bacchanal Wine Gala and Auction to a sold out audience of over 320 art and wine lovers. Paddles were raised often and bidding was competitive, resulting in the most successful Bacchanal to date; the total proceeds from the event surpassed all previous records with over $530,000 raised. Bacchanal was Co-Chaired by Brian Daggett and Franz Rabauer.

A special paddle raise at the end of the live auction raised an additional $23,000 to provide art supplies to PAFA students. Since Bacchanal's inception, the event has raised over $4.5 million to help fund PAFA's student scholarships and education programs.

The 2012 Wine Auction celebrated Great Wine Families of the World and honored Carissa and Chiara Mondavi of Continuum Estate, Napa Valley, California; Pio Boffa of Pio Cesare Winery, Piedmont, Italy; Jean Trimbach of Maison Trimbach, Alsace, France and Robert Pepi of Bodega Valentin Bianchi, Mendoza, Argentina. Special Guest Chefs for the Gala Dinner were Patrick Feury of Nectar in Berwyn, PA and Terence Feury of Tavro 13 in Swedesboro, NJ.

MEMBERSHIP

This year, 3,068 general members were served and PAFA welcomed 533 new members. Members-only programming offerings were increased to include curator and faculty led gallery tours, providing members with the opportunity to understand the collection through both an art historical and an artists' perspective. A Library Membership program was also created in FY13 to better serve PAFA's local communities, providing local libraries with the opportunity to extend free general admission to the Museum to their patrons. This new initiative served 13 local libraries in its inaugural year. PAFA Members also enjoyed free admission to the popular PAFA After Dark season.

THE PEALE CIRCLE

The Peale Circle, PAFA's leadership membership group had a wonderful year with many varied opportunities to explore art, including private tours of the Museum and its exhibitions, visiting private collections on the Main Line and Long Island, tours through Art Basel Miami and The Armory Show in New York. The highlight was the annual three-day Art Exploration Trip to San Francisco.

Newport RI

PAFA's Peale Circle participated in celebrating the 100th Anniversary, of the Newport Art Museum and the exhibition of works by William Trost Richards. PAFA loaned an extraordinary collection of the artist's "coupon" paintings to the exhibition.

Dr. Silvers Private Collection

The Peale Circle visited the residence of Dr. Willys Silvers for a private tour of Pennsylvania old masters. Dr. Silvers has been collecting for over twenty-five years.

The Schulhof Collection

The Peale Circle traveled to Rudolph and Hannelore Schulhof's collection in East Hampton New York. Their collection includes pieces by artists including Ellsworth Kelly, Cy Twombly, Jasper Johns, and Mark Rothko.

Art Exploration Trips

Wine tasting at PAFA's 2013 Bacchanal Wine Gala Thomas Jefferson Honoree, Grgich Hills Winery in Napa Valley.

Harry Philbrick, Edna S. Tuttleman Director of the Museum toured groups of Peale Circle members through the country's two prominent art shows: Art Basel Miami and The Armory Show in New York.
